

MANY NEW FACES IN UPPER HOUSE

Republicans Gain Eight At Election This Year.

Lively Scraps Precipitated in Some States Notably Michigan and Kansas.

TWO-THIRDS ARE REPUBLICAN.

Washington, Nov. 13.—As a result of the election and the political upheavals in the various states Tuesday there will be many changes in the United States senate. Of the thirty senators whose terms expire March 3, 1917, not many more than half of them are reasonably sure of being returned. A few have retired voluntarily, but for the most part they will be forced to step down from their high offices because the political complexion of their states has changed, or they find themselves out of touch and harmony with their parties.

The terms of fifteen Republicans and fifteen Democratic senators expire next March. On party lines their places will be filled by nineteen Republicans and eleven Democrats, a gain of eight for the Republicans. These changes will occur in Montana, Colorado, Idaho and Oregon, where Democratic senators will retire, and Republicans take their places. The Democratic states which have already chosen new senators or will, at the next sessions of their legislatures, are Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The republican states in which Republicans are to be chosen are Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska. In addition to these ten states in which new senators are assured there are lively fights on in Delaware, Rhode Island, New Jersey and New Hampshire that bid fair to result in more new blood coming into the senate, making, in all, the probability of fourteen changes out of a total membership of ninety.

Primary Law Is Responsible.
The primary election laws adopted by many of the states is for the most part responsible for some of the changes in the make-up of the upper branch of congress.

On a straight party vote the Republicans at present have a majority of 23, the roll call standing 56 Republicans to 33 Democrats. Col. DuPont has been selected to fill the long vacancy in Delaware's representation, which will bring the dominant party's majority up to 34. In the next congress the vote will stand 61 to 29, giving the Republicans a two-thirds majority, and, barring anti-administration outbreaks will give them the needed votes to pass a number of treaties now hung up in the senate. It is thought more than likely that President Roosevelt will continue the senate in special session after March 4 and dispose of the Santo Domingo treaty. This and other matters of state have been hung up for a long time and it is hoped to get the advantage of the two-thirds majority before it is overcome by the two new senators from the state of Oklahoma, who are certain to be Democrats, and make the division on party lines 61 to 31.

Clark Anticipated; Didn't Run.
Colorado's new Republican senator will be Simon Guggenheim, of the American Smelting company. He will succeed Thomas A. Patterson (dem.). Senator William A. Clark, of Montana, announced some time ago that he would not be a candidate for reelection, thereby anticipating the result of Tuesday's election, when the state went Republican. The leading Republican candidate for his place is Representative Joseph M. Dixon, of Missoula, who will in all probability be elected. Mr. Dixon is now serving his second term in the house.

The victory of the Republicans of Idaho will result in the retirement of Senator Fred T. Dubois. The new Republican senator from Idaho will be Matthew Donah.

Another western state expected to get into the Republican column within the next two years is Nevada. When a successor to Senator Newlands will help to increase the Republican majority. By the time the next legislature is chosen it is confidently expected that the Republicans will have a good majority in the state. Charles M. Schwab is out for the Nevada senatorship and is putting his fences in condition for the contest.

Nevada's new senator will be Norris Brown, of Kearney, the present attorney general of the state. He was nominated for the place now held by Senator Joseph H. Millard, of Omaha at the state convention. His success brought disappointment to a number of other candidates.

Free-for-All Fight in Kansas.
In Kansas there is a free-for-all battle for Joseph R. Burton's seat, now being temporarily filled by Senator Benton, while his predecessor is serving his jail sentence at Ironton, Mo. Practically every member of the Kansas delegation in the house is after the place.

Senator Aldrich is having a hard time keeping control of the Republican organization of Rhode Island. He is against his colleague, George F. Wetmore, whose term expires next March.

Col. Colt, representative, and R. H. Goddard, Democrat both millionaires, are after Senator Wetmore's seat. The legislature is close, with the Republicans in the majority.

The New Hampshire situation is one of the most interesting in the country. Winston Churchill is mentioned as a senatorial possibility. Senator Burnham is a candidate, and will probably come back.

Senator Alger's announcement that his failing health would prevent him from continuing his service in the senate after March 4 next has precipitated a lively free-for-all fight in Michigan.

James McMillan, a son of the late Senator McMillan, William Alden Smith, of Grand Rapids, Samuel W. Smith, of Pontiac, and Charles E. Townsend, another congressman and author of the Esch-Townsend bill, are candidates.

Oregon's new Republican senator will be Jonathan Burke, who defeated Senator Gearin, Democrat at the primaries last spring.

BIGGEST FISH.

Wins Golden Miniature With Diamond Eyes for Carroll.

Conductor Dennis Carroll, of the Paducah-Louisville run, is wearing a gold fish watch charm which is now "all his," and he is proud of it, too. The fish has miniature scales and its eyes are small diamonds. Carroll won it fairly and squarely in a fishing contest, and it was not a case of "about this long, but he got away."

"No, mine weighed five pounds and was a bass," said Carroll. "I caught him in the Eddyville lake over a year ago and he's the biggest bass fish caught in this state during the year." A Louisville sporting house offered it.

OVERMASTERING WAS TEMPTATION

Belligerent Broke Glass And Added Theft To His Act.

Theory of Police About Destruction of Nagel & Meyer's Show Window.

CORROBORATED BY WITNESSES.

There is a question in the minds of Paducah patrolmen who have been working on the Nagel & Meyer's jewelry store robbery about the motive for breaking the glass. They do not feel sure that robbery was the intention of the person or persons who smashed the window glass.

"I have looked into the matter," Patrolman James Brennan, a hard worker, declared this morning, "and believe that the breaking of the window was not intentional, and that robbery followed because of the temptation offered in the display of watch cases and jewelry within easy reach."

"Billy Sherrell, motorman on an owl car, passed the store at 2:30 o'clock. His wife was ill, and he went up Third street to visit her a few moments. He stated that he observed four or five men whom he could not see plainly, because of the darkness at the jewelry store. They seemed to be quarreling and Sherrell was certain they were drinking. He proceeded south on Third street and heard no crash."

"The Greek who attends to the Vlahos fruit stand across the street, was in the rear and came forward but saw no one. James Soler, the photographer, was at Ogilvie's corner, Fourth street and Broadway, and heard the crash. He saw no one when he got to the Vlahos stand. "I believe that a fight resulted from the quarrel and one belligerent threw a brick at another, breaking the glass. Possibly the temptation to grab a watch case was too much, and the case was taken. The 'get away' was very quickly," he said.

DOG AS AERONAUT INJURES SIX

Pet Descending in Parachute Causes Pole to Topple Over.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Nov. 13.—A dog which made a balloon ascent here late yesterday caused an accident which resulted in the injury of six persons. After John Wasson, the aeronaut, who had taken his pet with him in his flight, at loose the parachute to which the animal was attached, the dog in falling became entangled among the ropes which were supporting a heavy pole used to hold up the balloon while it was being inflated. The pole toppled over, and Hershel Bell, son of Rev. J. A. Bell, of this city, and Ben Pasley were caught under it. Each has a broken leg. Four other persons were hurt slightly.

The cottagers made their first move yesterday when they selected members to represent them on the administrative council, by which, under the new charter, the city will be ruled.

Beautiful Lake No More.

The beautiful little lake at Woodson mines, near Greenville, Ky., is a lake no more, and the sportsmen who often landed big game with the rod and line are threatening vengeance on the Paducah Illinois wrecking crew for spoiling their sport. It all was brought about by the sinking of a fill which slid a big 800-class freight engine into the lake. In order to rescue the steel steed, the lake had to be drained, and fish were had by the hundred for the mere picking up.

CULLOM WANTS REVISION.

Says Tariff Should Be Taken Out of Politics.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: Immediately after congress convenes next month Senator Cullom, of Illinois, will introduce a joint resolution in the senate providing for the appointment of an expert tariff commission to consider and report on those schedules which should be revised. Such a commission according to the view of the senator, should be absolutely non-partisan and should treat the subject solely in accordance with the needs of the business and labor interests of the country. In the judgment of Senator Cullom the time has come to eliminate the tariff from politics and to make it what it should be—a practical business proposition. What he wants is a law which will enable a change in a particular schedule, either increase or decrease, as the interests of working people require.
